"Catholic parents and instructors will be grateful to the author of this novel book for great help in training the little children to know and love Our Lord."—The Messenger of the Sacred Heart.

Life Stories of Dying Penitents. Sketches of the lives and deaths of some great sinners. From the diary of a Catholic Missionary Priest. Large 16mo. Cloth. 75 cents

This book furnishes most interesting, as well as instructive reading.

Lily of Israel, The, or Life of the Blessed Virgin. By Abbé Gerbet. New revised edition. With an Introduction by Rev. William Livingston. 12mo: Cloth. 75 cents

The writer of this new version has performed a difficult task with a sureness of touch which comes from long literary experience and a refinement of sympathy that betokens a labor of love. Some errors in geographical situations have been corrected, and the whole narrative of events is brought into strict conformity with Biblical facts. Texts of Scripture, that in the old version were translated from the French, are here quoted in the words of our own Bible, and the whole work, while adhering as closely as possible to the original, is presented in a new dress, worthy of the advance made in Catholic literature during the last twenty years. The result is a real prose poem that may be read and enjoyed by young and old, with no fear that any page will cause the most critical to wish it had been written in a vein of less imaginative fervor.

Little Follower of Jesus, The. By Rev. A. M. Grussi. 16mo. Cloth Net, 35 cents.

This book for children is worthy of the highest recommendation. It is written especially for boys and girls. The plan is taken from Thomas A'Kempis in a simple style, and the illustrations, drawn from life in its sensible aspects, are very numerous and fitting.

Lisbeth—The Story of a First Communion. By Mary T. Waggaman. 12mo. Cloth. 75 cents

In the story of "Lisbeth," a little girl in whose brief experience "nothing very pleasant ever happened twice," Mary T. Waggaman has again shown herself to be one of the very best of story writers. After Sister Angela comes unexpectedly on the scene, "God's little stray white lamb" begins to see brighter days. How this happy transformation was brought about the reader will learn and be the happier and better for the knowledge.

This is a First Communion story and perhaps it will be put on the shelf of girls' books, but the boy who thinks nothing thrilling happens in this little red-covered volume makes a big mistake. Children and grown-ups too will find "Lisbeth" a very tender and absorbingly interesting story.

"Little White Flower, A." The Story of Soeur Thérèse of Lisieux. A new translation of her autobiography by Rev. Thomas N. Taylor, including the changes and additions in the original manuscript that appear in the definite Carmelite Edition of 1914. 12mo. Cloth. With four full-page photogravure illustrations. Net, *80 cents.

In deference to earnest requests this autobiography is published apart from the other contents of the large edition. To complete the narrative, however, the story of the birth and death of Soeur Thérèse is reproduced from its pages, together with a letter to her sister Celine, containing a vigorous defence of the contemplative life.

"Little Flower of Jesus, The." Soeur Thérèse of Lisieux. Edited and Translated by Reverend T. N. Taylor. Preface by His Eminence Cardinal Bourne. 8vo. Gilt top. Cloth. 14 photogravures. Net, *$2.00.

A monumental volume by and about "The Little Flower of Jesus," containing her autobiography, letters, selected poems, favours, etc.

The fame of the "Little Flower of Jesus" is already widespread among Catholics of all nations. Although she died only in 1897, at the age of twenty-four, the process of her beatification was begun in 1910. This volume is a translation of her life, written by herself and published after her death under the title of "L'Histoire d'une Ame." Supplementary information of much interest is supplied by the editor, the Rev. T. N. Taylor, and the volume is illustrated with a number of portraits and views of places connected with the life of Soeur Thérèse. The record of this simple, saintly soul teaches the old story of simplicity in God's service, of the perfect accomplishment of small recurring duties, of humility, obedience, and charity.

"The translation, edited by the Rev. T. N. Taylor, of the Archdiocese of Glasgow, is of rare excellence; the illustrations, numbering fourteen, are admirble and the book is handsomely printed and tastefully and durably bound."—The Ave Maria.

"Worthy of being placed side by side with the most striking of the Confessions of the Saints. To the translator, who has done his work so well and so lovingly, all English-speaking clients of the Little Saint must be under a deep debt of gratitude. The letter-press and illustrations reflect the highest credit upon the publishers."—Irish Independent.

"This really splendid volume is a new and complete translation [with a vast amount of new matter] of the now universally known "Histoire d'une Ame." Everything combines to make this one of the most attractive books published for a long time. Those—and who is not?—who are attracted by the wonderful appeal which 'The Little Flower' has made throughout the world will welcome this magnificent volume. It is extremely cheap at the price for which it is published, and should be in every Catholic library."—Irish Monthly.

ttle Pilgrims to Our Lady of Lourdes. By Mrs. Francis Blundell (M. E. Francis). 12mo. Cloth. Net, *$1.10.

This is, virtually, a life of Bernadette Soubirous, beginning with an account of the vision of Our Lady as she first appeared to this simple, pious child. It is delightfully written in language suitable for children. A Preface by Mrs. Blundell tells of a touching incident in, we imagine, her own immediate family which prompted her to write this book. The anecdotes of Bernadette, with which the little volume overflows are well worth the price of it. One of these is told of Fabisch, the sculptor who carved the marble statue of Our Lady of Lourdes which now stands in the Grotto, is as follows: "I have never seen anything so beautiful as Bernadette, when I asked her to show me how the Blessed Virgin looked when she said. 'I am the Immaculate Conception.' Bernadette stood up, folded her hands and looked up to Heaven; but Fra Angelico, Perugino, nor Raphael never painted anything so gentle or yet so profound as the look in the eyes of this simple, naïve young girl."

oneliness? By Mgr. Robert Hugh Benson. 12mo. Cloth. Net, $1.50.

"The late Robert Hugh Benson could on occasion deal with the creatures of his imagination as relentlessly as Thomas Hardy. He did not hesitate to deliver a heroine over to untimely death for the sake of the hero's vocation; he wrote of the relations between God and man, not, of course, with the bitterness with which Mr. Hardy writes of the relations between Fate and man, but with the same lack of sentimentality.

"The central theme of this unusual novel is not unlike that of Francis Thompson's poem, 'The Hound of Heaven.' The human being attempts to escape from Divinity in the mazes of worldly delight, but Divinity irresistibly pursues. Like all Mgr. Benson's books, 'Loneliness?' contains much excellent characterization. Maggie Brent, the pious, gentle, inefficient, lovable old maid, is treated with realism at once humorous and sympathetic. Aside from its value as a well-told story, and as a revelation of religious psychology, the book possesses this special value—it explains, so clearly that no reader can fail to understand, the purposes and operation of the 'Ne temere' decree."

"Loneliness I think is the clearest clue not only to Mgr. Benson's purpose in writing his novels, but also to the whole character of his Catholic life. He was always striving to bring God before men. Not content to reach those who would scorn the claims of a pulpit but could be reached by the story of a novel. This is evidently the purpose of Loneliness. Artistically I think it one of his best works."—Joseph H. McMahon, Ph. D., in the Bookman.

Men, Not Angels. Short Stories. By Katharine Tynan. 12mo. Cloth. Net, *$1.25.
Katharine Tynan's prolific pen is ever busy in her wonderfully successful field of literature. This compilation of a dozen short stories is directed principally to girl readers. The writer knows the needs of girlhood, their dangers and temptations especially against faith. Her stories, everyone of them, contain real antidotes. Long experience in life has given the author the wisdom of a Solon and right cleverly has she imparted it in these useful and edifying stories. Merrily and cleverly they are told. Wit and wisdom enshroud them and they all point a moral. Love for the old faith of Catholics in England is the general theme. Sacrifices made to retain the rich deposit of faith is frequently the theme of the story. They are bright and sparkling and worth reading.

Rev. A. Farley. 12mo. Cloth. Net, 50 cents.
In this biography, the Reverend author has succeeded in keeping clear an distinct to the mental gaze the personality of Monica, and created an interest i her apart from that which she inspires as the mother of Augustine. We feel tha even if he were not the illustrious doctor of the Church and great Saint of God tha he is, we would still enter with the same sympathy into the trials, the sorrows and the joys of Monica; pass with her from her happy, pious girlhood into tha darksome valley of a wife's and mother's sorrows, and watch her attain fron thence by the path of Christian heroism to the sunny uplands of the pure lov of God. The conditions in which St. Monica attained to sanctification are thos of the greater portion of humanity; and this is why so strong a human interes has always attached itself to her.

Morning Watch, The. By Father Ignatius Diertins, S.J. Translation
edited by Father Elder Mullan, S.J. 12mo. Cloth. Net, $1.50.
Few probably have ever followed the Exercises of Saint Ignatius in a spiritual retreat without wishing it were possible to extend the meditations to cover the year and thus make the results permanent. Many have resolved to go over some portion of the work daily; but the matter presented difficulties when the first enthusiasm had worn off and the resolution, somehow, was not kept.
In "The Morning Watch" such good people will find a year's daily meditations on the "Exercises" outlined. Each subject is simply, strongly and very conveniently presented, and it would be impossible to believe that great and lasting results should not follow if the book be used as designed.

ustard Seed. Some Pungent Paragraphs. By Francis P. Donnelly, S.J. 16mo. Attractive cloth binding. Net, 60 cents.
More than thirty little studies are contained in this composition. Every one of them is a mental snap-shot of men and their characteristics. The author is a mind doctor. He knows what is the matter with us. This is evident, for on reading his caricatures we perceive ourselves. He reveals our faults and bad habits, but not cruelly. He makes fun of us and suggests the remedy. It is generally humility that we need. Do you nag? Do you call people hateful names? Are you sensitive? Are you a boaster? Are you jealous of others? Read this rich and clever little book and see yourself in the mirror and you will be, if not entirely cured, at least comforted and convinced of the absurdity of your attitude towards others. It's a delightful little volume and contains nuggets of golden thought that will help the reader to go on his way of life rejoicing. It is pungency that does not sting.

ystical Knowledge of God, The. An Essay in the Art of Knowing and Loving the Divine Majesty. By Dom. Savinien Louismet, O.S.B. 16mo. Cloth. With steel frontispiece. Net, *75 cents.
This is a treatise on the experimental knowledge of God, such as it is possible for every Christian to acquire, if he will do what is needful thereto. The reader must not expect to find herein the whole doctrine of the mystical life nor even of mental prayer; still less must he look for an exposition of the extraordinary and miraculous dealings of God with a few favored souls. The book is the substance of a series of sermons preached from time to time by the author reduced to a body of doctrine for the more convenient use of himself and those under his spiritual guidance. He has been persauded to give it to the public at large in the hope that it may do good.

lorah of Waterford. By Rosa Mulholland. 12mo. Cloth. Net, *$1.25.
The charm of this story lies not so much in the novelty of the plot as in the keen insight into Irish life afforded on almost every page. The novel deals with the the old theme of rack-rents, eviction and consequent sorrow and suffering. The character of Norah Fitsgerald, the central figure, presents in a striking way the sterling qualities for which the women of her class have ever been conspicuous. Courage in adversity, the patient bearing of suffering, fidelity in the strong, pure love which bound her to the man she finally weds, are a few of the threads the author has used in the weaving of this pleasing character. The accurate details of the story's setting will rouse pleasant memories in the minds of those whose privilege it has been to tarry there a while. It is refreshing in these days when there is such a prodigal use of ink and paper to no purpose, to come upon a story of this type.

Prodigals and Sons. By John Ayscough. 12mo. Cloth. Net, *$1.25.

The man who can tell the tale of his fellow-man interestingly and well wil always find a hearing. Monsignor Bickerstaff-Drew, who writes under the nam of John Ayscough, has already made his mark in the literary world and his nam has become as well known as that of his English and Irish contemporaries, Ben son and Sheehan. To his already large list of publications he now adds hi "Prodigals and Sons." Here a long list of short, bright and breezy stories an sketches greet us. They are as significant of the author's power as they are il luminative of his versatility. Tales of mystery, suggestive of Conan Doyle, an tales of love and adventure suggestive of Kipling all follow trippingly. There ar twenty-seven of them in all and most of them are solid and interesting, but al are not of the same calibre. The author's magnificent descriptive style is i evidence everywhere. His deliniation of the English common folk is superb. He has all the cunning of Dickens and certainly more than an ordinary supply o humor. The unfailing moral of his tale is the sweetness of service for others an the ultimate triumph of honesty. Anyone with red blood and desire for interest ing and solid story-telling will just devour these absorbingly interesting tales.

d Circle, The. By Gerard A. Reynolds. 12mo. Attractively bound in cloth. 75 cents

A dramatic story of the Boxer uprising in China, narrating the exciting experiences of a group of Europeans who band together for self-protection.

efining Fires. By Alice Dease. 12mo. Cloth. 246 pages. 75 cents

In this novel, Miss Alice Dease, favorably known through her stories of Irish life, has ventured on a new field, and in "Refining Fires," her latest and undoubtedly her best book, sets before us the life and fortunes of two French families, the Mauvoisins and the De Barlis. Raoul Mauvoisin is married to Lucienne de Barli. A few months after the wedding Lucienne's father is beggared through the dishonesty of his cashier, Pedro Lozare, who has made away with all the monies entrusted to him and then disappears, leaving no trace of his whereabouts. As a result the families of Raoul and Lucienne become estranged. The mother of Raoul, who idolizes her son, an extravagant spendthrift, continues to gratify his every whim. His wife, however, knowing their impoverished condition adapts herself to it. She takes on herself the duties that she realizes are hers, visiting the poor and the sick, and helping them as best she can. It is in one of these visits that she discovers the defaulting cashier, Pedro Lozare. She pledges herself to secrecy, and so touches his heart by her repeated kindnesses that he is brought to repentance. As a result of information gained, the plots of unprincipled schemers are thwarted, and the story ends, as every story ought to end, in a way to gain the reader's approval. The plot is very well thought out, the story is remarkably well told, and is sure to hold the attention of the reader from the first page to the last.

Treasures of the Rosary, The. By Very Rev. Charles H. McKenna, O.P. 12mo. Cloth. $1.00 Paper binding. 25 cents

These short instructions on the Rosary have a value of their own. The essential virtue of the Rosary is in the meditation on the mysteries which the decades suggest. We have indeed the custom of a short announcement of the mystery before the beginning of the decade, but it is of little practical value except for those whose mind is habitually occupied with these thoughts. Hence the practice of a brief meditation offers an opportunity of which every priest should avail himself if he would render properly fruitful, the practice of reciting the beads in public. The chapters here gathered together by an experienced missionary serve that purpose admirably. They begin with an exposition of the essential value of prayer, point out the power of the Rosary (the Our Father and Hail Mary) to awaken in the soul proper sentiments of reverance, gratitude, and devotion to God; then they take up the different mysteries one after another. The volume concludes with the explanation of the Salve Regina, a list of the indulgences attached to the recital of the Rosary, and a brief account of the Confraternity of the Rosary. The material properly disposed would aptly serve for a course of May devotions, or for instructions to Sodalities.

Watching An Hour. By Francis P. Donnelly, S.J. A book for The Blessed Sacrament. 16mo. Cloth. Net, 75 cents.

"Watching an Hour" is a valuable contribution to Eucharistic literature. Whether it is used in the public exercise of the Holy Hour, or for private devotions in honor of the Blessed Sacrament, it will furnish food for profitable thought on the saving Mystery of the Altar. Each chapter bears a novel title with a view, as the author says, of facilitating remembrance and stimulating lax attention. The Gospel story forms the basis for the considerations presented to the reader, and different phases of the life of the Great Teacher are dwelt upon in a forceful and original manner with new bearing on our Saviour's Tabernacle life.

The hackneyed phrase and trite truism find no place in this book. Father Donnelly's style is pleasing and thought-compelling because it is simple. Each chapter closes with a suitable prayer and at the end of the book there is a description of the Holy Hour, with an order of exercises.

Here is the literary and spiritual offering of a Jesuit priest who has some solid thoughts on the spiritual life and knows how to express them for the benefit of the ordinary reader. The book is a series of charming little essays, written most likely at different times and very wisely compiled for the present-day reader. The style is easy and attractive and a look over the list of subjects would present agreable subject-matter for all varieties of minds. In these essays will be found a union of literary grace and pastoral devotion in the treatment of themes always of great interest and charm. The atmosphere of the love of God pervades all, and cheerfulness, or "glad service" is the message most emphasized: "When a heart is filled with Divine Love and established in a steadfast peace, it possesses a satisfaction which no pain of body or grief of soul can kill." The essays are so brief that one may read any one of them in a few moments.

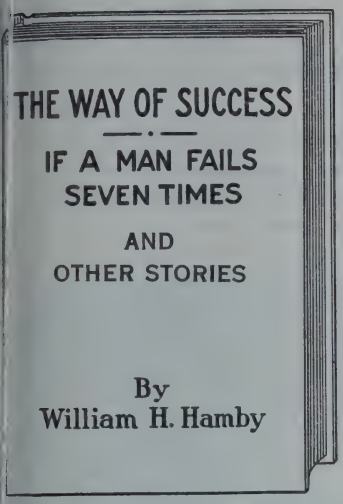
THE WAY OF SUCCESS



If a Man Fails Seven Times—The Man At the Top—In Debt and Out—The Commercial Club in Our Town

These articles when they originally appeared in the Saturday Evening Post, brought scores of letters from all classes of men—from high school boys to railroad presidents, who had found in them renewed courage and clearer vision of success.

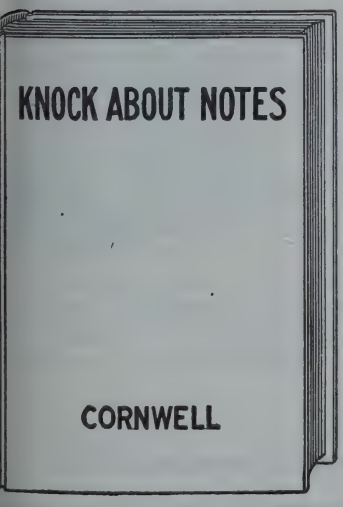
Knock About Notes

By JOHN J. CORNWELL

TWO years ago a volume of Knock About Notes was issued for circulation among friends. So many additional requests for copies were received that the author, Gov. John J. Cornwell, consented to a second edition, which is now reaching the public.



Knock About Notes is a small book of excerpts from a column under the same titles which the author has maintained in the Hampshire Review for twenty-five years. Though the governor depreciates these brevities by stating that they were written hastily on rambles through the woods and fields, on trains and in hotels, yet they manage to present most interestingly his homely, but true and feeling philosophy of life.

"Rather than for its excellent literary qualities the volume will appeal to dwellers in the Little Mountain State of the light it throws upon the real Cornwell. And the highest compliment conveyed by its authorship is that it names the versatile head of the State of West Virginia above all else a man—a man big in those qualities and characteristics, which we imagine, must sometime make Him glad. He made us in His image.

—Wheeling Register."

These little essays of homely philosophy, by a man who has arisen from farmer's boy to be governor of West Virginia, will be read and loved by thousands.

SELF-PRONOUNCING

DICTIONARY

By HENRY NISSEN

THE value and merit of this dictionary will readily be appreciated. Its two-fold design is to supply a long-felt need of having a self-pronouncing dictionary of convenient (hip-pocket) size and to give to the Danish-Norwegian population a system of markings that will minimize the difficulties of studying the English language. With a little study of the simplified system of diacritical markings and phonetic respellings used in Part I, one may, without difficulty, consult any standard English dictionary, and escape the confusion resulting from the use of two systems of markings. In Part II, a key to Danish-Norwegian pronunciation is provided, as an aid to those who wish to learn the Danish-Norwegian language.

THE AMERICAN JOURNAL OF THE MEDICAL SCIENCES

GEORGE MORRIS PIERSOL, M.D., Editor.
JOHN H. MUSSER, Jr., M.D., Assistant Editor.

MONTHLY. ILLUSTRATED. FIVE DOLLARS PER YEAR

"ONE of the world's few great journals" is the judgment of Sir William Osler. For a century it has been the preferred medium for the important announcements of the medical world—preëminently the useful magazine of the profession.

It is a Journal of character and of distinction, a periodical of world-scope. Its pages are not filled with ordinary news or gossip. They are devoted to the expression of the ripe thought and experience of leaders in every field—to useful discussion of the puzzling conditions of practice by foremost teachers and men whose exceptional experience in hospital and general practice gives their views the greatest weight.

Practical, authoritative, it offers the results of research and experiment, the detailed experience the progressive practitioner must possess. Under "Progress of Medical Science" the world's announcements are assembled, analyzed and discussed in the light of their own research by authorities in each department. The condensed, readable, proven residue is the world's real progress. Those assisting in this work are: W. S. Thayer, M.D., Johns Hopkins; Roger S. Morris, M.D., Univ. of Cincinnati; Oskar Klotz, M.D., Univ. of Pittsburgh; T. Turner Thomas, M.D., Univ. of Pennsylvania; John McCrae, M.D, McGill Univ., Edward P. Davis, A.M., M.D., Jefferson Medical College; John G. Clark, M.D., Univ. of Pennsylvania; Clarence J. Blake, M.D., Harvard Medical School; Milton J. Rosenau, M.D., Harvard Medical School; John F. Anderson, M.D.; Samuel W. Lambert, M.D., Columbia Univ.; Thompson S. Wescott, M.D.; Frederick O. Waagé, M.D. Each number of the Journal is a well-rounded volume offering at least 10 original contributions of vital importance. Its files are a reference library kept constantly revised. Always timely in its consideration of subjects of immediate interest to the profession, the American Journal is, for the practitioner, surgeon or specialist, a reflection of the advanced thought of the medical world developed along lines of practical usefulness.

Quarterly. Illustrated. 1200 Pages. Postpaid, Paper, $6.00—Cloth, $9.00 Per Annum.

Edited by HOBART AMORY HARE, M.D.
Professor of Therapeutics, Materia Medica, and Diagnosis, Jefferson Medical College.

Assisted by LEIGHTON F. APPLEMAN, M.D.
Instructor in Therapeutics, Jefferson Medical College.

ITS immeasurable service to the medical profession establishes Progressive Medicine as an institution of unique importance. It supplies in orderly and usable form a mass of new material culled from the important medical journals of the world. The combined subscription price of the journals consulted by the staff and contributors is over $1200, two hundred times the cost for a year of Progressive Medicine. They are printed in the language of every civilized country, and embody the important announcements of the world's progress in medical science. Issued quarterly, Progressive Medicine is a digest covering the entire field and presenting in complete detail advances, discoveries and improvements in medical and surgical science.

No dreary mechanical compilations are offered, prepared with scissors and paste, but virile, readable, original narratives, in which the author not only reviews and analyzes the progress of events but embodies his own knowledge and wide experience. Beyond estimate is the value of the time and special training expended to place the world's medical progress and its significance at the ready disposal of the reader. The result is a symposium, authoritative, complete and readable, in which actual results and real progress alone are presented. The observations of widely-separated workers are coördinated: missing links supplied; the superficial, unproven and non-essential rejected.

Progressive Medicine is the digested essence of the entire current medical literature of the world, clarified and explained by men whose practical experience enables them to grasp and indicate the bearing of each new advance on the every-day work of the practitioner or specialist, of the research worker or the surgeon. It is a complete reference library, conveniently arranged by subjects, carefully indexed and thoroughly revised four times each year.

Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co.'s PUBLICATIONS FOR 1917

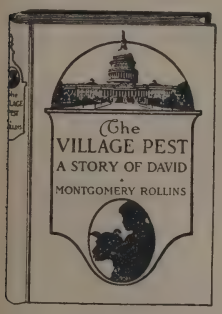
THE SHELLEYS OF GEORGIA

By BEATRICE YORK HOUGHTON

Illustrated by J. HENRY Jacket illustration in colors by CHARLES COPELAND
12mo Cloth Price, $1.35

A strong novel of the South, by the South, through Southern aid and inspiration, but for every reader who enjoys a story of real men and women. It is dominated by "Captain Gabe" Shelley, and centres in the love affairs of his beautiful daughter, Rose, lovable in every one of her many moods. Through the love story, with many conflicting elements in which varying moral standards are fearlessly held up for inspection, there runs a thread of fine philanthropy which culminates unexpectedly. No latter-day problem is dwelt upon as such, yet there is scarcely one that cannot be regarded in a clearer and fairer light after reading this thoroughly human story in which healthy and often humorous optimism is ever present.

"HER FATHER ENTERED THE ROOM"



THE VILLAGE PEST

A STORY OF DAVID

By MONTGOMERY ROLLINS

Author of many books of a more serious nature
Illustrated by J. HENRY 12mo Cloth Price, $1.35

This is not a juvenile, though about a boy, and a very real one, who lived, moved, and had his stirring and intrepid being in the Washington of thirty-odd years ago. The interest never flags. Youth is indeed served. Our entire national capital is grist for this uproarious son of a burdened but deeply-discerning Senator. Undaunted the likable young terror storms the high halls of state, unharmed he careers through hair-raising experiences, with versatility and imagination he plots his campaigns, with coolness he meets the inevitable reckoning. Read of "David" and be young again, with all the thrill of those deathless days.

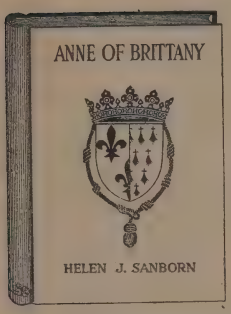
ANNE OF BRITTANY

The Story of a Duchess and Twice-Crowned Queen

By HELEN J. SANBORN

Introduction by Professor KATHARINE LEE BATES of Wellesley College
With twenty-seven full-page illustrations Crown 8vo Gilt top Price, $2.00



Brittany is one of the most picturesque of regions, and its last duchess, Anne, crowned as the consort of two kings of France, is one of the striking characters of history. Chivalry, romance, intrigue, and gravest administrative problems combine to make the story of this remarkable woman more interesting than fiction, and Miss Sanborn, whose life closed while this book was in press, devoted a vast amount of intelligent research to acquiring and presenting a thorough knowledge of the life and times of Anne, together with a graphic description of modern Brittany in connection with her enthusiastic search for information. The handsome volume which has resulted is an important contribution to the world's store of knowledge, made available and attractive.

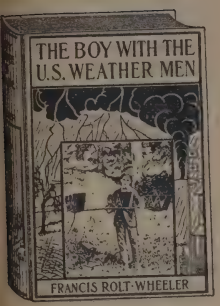
THE BOY WITH THE U. S. WEATHER MEN

Ninth volume of the "U. S. Service Series"

By FRANCIS ROLT–WHEELER

Profusely illustrated from photographs loaned by U. S. Weather Bureau
Large 12mo Cloth Decorated cover Price, $1.35



This new volume of the now standard "U. S. Service Series" explores a new world, which holds new stores of excitement and mystery. This is the world of the air. It has been written in coöperation with the officials of the U. S. Weather Bureau, and is endorsed by them. It is curiously alive with the marvels and perils that forever hang suspended in the air over our heads. Hundreds of lives are saved each year by the Weather Bureau in forecasting these dangers. Weather is still the most important thing in the life of Man, and Dr. Rolt-Wheeler's new book captures attention as much by the sheer fascination of its subject material as by the deftness with which this is woven into a genuine and gripping boys' story.

TORNADO WRECKING A FARM

THE POLAR HUNTERS

Second Volume of "Museum Books"

By FRANCIS ROLT–WHEELER

Thirty-four illustrations from photographs furnished mainly by the American Museum of Natural History Price, $1.35

The "Frozen North" always fascinates as a subject, and so does Dr. Rolt-Wheeler as an author. Consequently, here is a combination of unusual merit. In no other book has so haunting a picture been drawn of Eskimo life. Strange fights with walrus and polar-bear on the sea, ice perils from drifting floes and crashing bergs, and the constant fight against hunger, cold, and darkness, give this book a glamor as great as is its wealth of information.

DAVE PORTER'S GREAT SEARCH

Or, The Perils of a Young Civil Engineer

The new "Dave Porter Book"

By EDWARD STRATEMEYER

Illustrated by Walter S. Rogers 12mo Cloth Price, $1.25

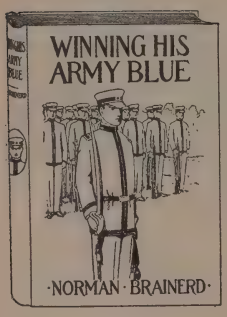
Dave Porter is pursuing his profession of civil engineering and having a variety of adventures in the mountains when word comes to him that Jessie Wadsworth, his dearest girl friend, has disappeared in a most mysterious manner. Her parents conclude that she was abducted by Gypsies, but Dave thinks that some of their old enemies are in the game, and he starts on a search for the girl. One surprise is followed by another, and the young engineer is confronted by many perils. A story that will make Dave Porter more of a hero than ever.

WINNING HIS ARMY BLUE

Or, The Honor Graduate

By NORMAN BRAINERD

Illustrated by John Goss 12mo Cloth Price, $1.25



In a military boarding-school where things are lively, but where honor is supreme, one cadet can gain a special prize, the highest possible in the school. This is called "Winning His Army Blue." An athlete, who is far more than merely an athlete, is forced to go through one trying situation after another in quest of the coveted award. A very keen understanding is shown of the type of active boy that makes "an officer and gentleman."

For all boys from fourteen to eighteen.

THE LURE OF THE MISSISSIPPI

By D. LANGE

Illustrated by W. L. Howes 12mo Cloth Price, $1.25

Mr. Lange's "Indian Stories" have a standing which is denied to most tales of that sort because they give so much really profitable information while satisfying the youthful desire for a story of adventure. This story has as its historical background the Sioux outbreak in Minnesota and the campaigns of the Civil War along the Mississippi. The plot is good. A villainous character has strong mercenary reasons for wishing to keep two boys from the south on the dangerous Indian frontier. An old trapper and a Sioux Indian Scout get acquainted with the boys and resolve to see that they get safely back to their home in Vicksburg, a most daring undertaking.

For boys from twelve to sixteen.

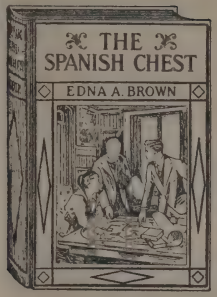
THE SPANISH CHEST

By EDNA A. BROWN

Illustrated by JOHN GOSS, and from Photographs

12mo Cloth Decorated Cover Price, $1.35



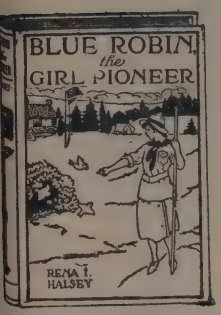
This book has the charm that goes with all books by Miss Brown, and a distinct one through having its scene laid in the picturesque island of Jersey. An American lady with her daughter and sons spend a winter as lodgers in a quaint villa. Delightful acquaintances are made, and the story interest finds its climax in a mysterious Spanish chest connected with Charles II., discovered through an ancient manuscript found by the elder of the American lads. Ruined castles, caves, a secret stair, and a bewitching little ghost feature in a good story giving a vivid picture of a locality seldom figuring in books.

For young people from fourteen to eighteen, and interesting to older readers.

BLUE ROBIN, THE GIRL PIONEER

By RENA I. HALSEY

Illustrated by NANA FRENCH BICKFORD 12mo Cloth 451 pages Price, $1.35



Nathalie Page is just such a girl of sixteen as one likes to read about. Obliged to exchange affluence in a large city for a modest home in a small one, she develops into capable young womanhood by becoming a member of The Girl Pioneers of America, that sterling patriotic order that seeks to revive the spirit of those who built up this country. Incidentally, Nathalie and her friends have the most enjoyable times imaginable, and the book holds one's attention remarkably.

UP WENT TWO HANDS IN PRETENDED SUBJUGATION

For girls from fourteen to eighteen, and any one else who likes a good story.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS AND MT. GREYLOCK

By ISABEL HORNIBROOK

Author of "GIRLS OF THE MORNING-GLORY CAMP FIRE"

Illustrated in two colors by JOHN GOSS 12mo Cloth Price, $1.35

This deals with the doings and adventures of a group of Camp Fire Girls in the picturesque Berkshire Hills of Massachusetts, the goal of their pilgrimage being the lofty summit of Mount Greylock, the "figurehead of the State." Their invigorating outdoor life qualifies them for joining the new patriotic organization formed amid Camp Fire ranks, the Minute Girls of 1916, which aims at training girls to be of service to their country in any emergency of peace or war. The story is told with all this noted author's dramatic force and gift of humor.

Girls of fourteen to eighteen will want this book.

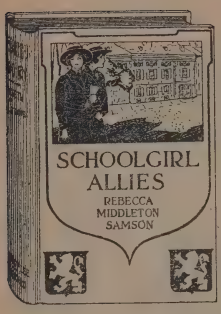
SCHOOLGIRL ALLIES

By REBECCA MIDDLETON SAMSON

Illustrated 12mo Cloth Price, $1.35



Two American sisters have a very interesting year at a typical aristocratic finishing school in Brussels, where their mates are from prominent families in Belgium, France, and the British Isles. One of the girls tells the story, and with great vivacity and charm of style shows the curiously interesting life at such a school, giving a great deal of outside information as well. The devoted friendships, pranks, mistakes, jealousies, and exhibitions of nobility of character among the girls are wonderfully true to life, and both individual and national traits stand out in strong relief. The interest heightens as the story proceeds, and brings the feeling of having actually known exceptional girls under unusual circumstances. In fact, many of the characters are from real life, ranking high in the world to-day, and they will recognize themselves pleasantly in these pages.

For girls from fourteen upwards, but good for any age.

PLUCKY LITTLE PATSY

The New "Brick House Book"

By NINA RHOADES

Illustrated by Nana French Bickford

Large 12mo Cloth Price, $1.00

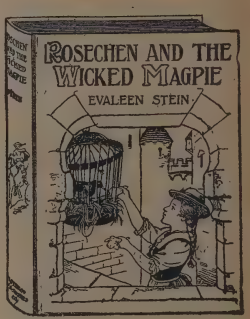
Patsy, whose real name was Patricia Rivers, was a girl of twelve in a New York flat. Imagine her suddenly transformed into an heiress and taken to live in an English manor-house under the care of an uncle who at last has found his brother's child. Naturally, the little American girl finds the change very great in every way and all her pluck is needed to meet new situations that would have been too much for many older people. For girls from ten to twelve. Boys will read it, too.

ROSECHEN AND THE WICKED MAGPIE

By EVALEEN STEIN

Frontispiece in two colors by John Goss

Decorations by L. J. Bridgman 12mo Cloth Price, $1.00



Charming to both the eye and the mind is the story of Rosechen, a little girl in the Tyrol, and a magpie confined in a cage in a nobleman's castle to atone for the thievish exploit of a magpie of former generations, this part of the story being historic. Rosechen's good little heart led her to disdain tradition, and there followed results of great importance to herself and her family, and to those of high station. For girls from eight to twelve, but without any limit in its power to interest.

STORY PLAYS

For Little Children

With Music, Finger Plays, and Rhythms

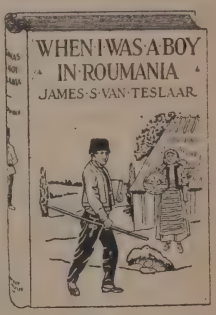
By MARY LEORA HALL and SARAH ELIZABETH PALMER

With frontispiece and pen-and-inks Quarto Cloth Price, $1.25

Miss Hall and Miss Palmer began as authors by composing songs with music which they needed in their teaching and could not find, and their work is now recognized as unsurpassed. The story plays and finger plays are bright and attractive, and the rhythms have a rare charm that comes from combining good music with the melodiousness that children love. All songs, plays, and tone-calls in the book have proved their worth and popularity by trial. For all little ones in both home and kindergarten.

WHEN I WAS A BOY IN ROUMANIA

By DR. J. S. VAN TESLAAR



Eighth Title in "Children of Other Lands" Books
Illustrated from photographs 12mo Cloth Price, $.75

Such books as "When I Was a Boy in Roumania" are the real thing in telling our boys and girls how they would live, dress, study, and play if they had been born in some foreign land. Dr. Van Teslaar grew up in a country full of interest in its history, customs and natural scenery, and has attained prominence in this country by research work at three large universities and in public service. A physician is almost always an intelligent observer and an entertaining narrator — if you can get him to talk. Not only will children be interested to know what young life is like in Roumania, but others will find here a good chance to learn much of a little-known country, now in world prominence as never before. For all readers from eight years upwards.

WHEN I WAS A GIRL IN HOLLAND

By CORNELIA DE GROOT

Ninth of "Children of Other Lands" Books
Illustrated from photographs 12mo Cloth Price, $.75

An interesting tale of child life strange to us. Miss De Groot, who came from Holland to be educated at a prominent business college in California, gives a vivid picture of her native country, in which children are so well trained to usefulness. We learn of curious farmhouses which shelter family and dairy under one capacious roof, of the dress, duties, pastimes, and education of the sturdy, well-trained children, of canals and skating frolics, of wonderful neatness and abundance of good things to eat. We interestedly follow the author through girlhood and to America, feeling that we have learned much while being entertained. To be enjoyed by children from eight years upwards.

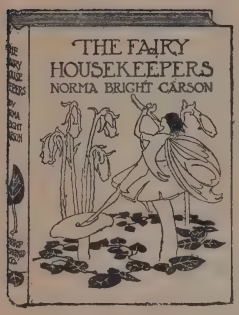
THE FAIRY HOUSEKEEPERS

By NORMA BRIGHT CARSON

Illustrated and decorated by HAZELTINE FEWSMITH
Square 12mo Cloth Price, $1.00



Children's imagination and sense of beauty must be cultivated while information is being imparted. Mrs. Carson understands this, and has happily fancied and shown the features of the changing seasons as the work of fairy housekeepers for good Mother Nature. They bring the flowers at the proper time, and cause the year's constant succession of delights. Miss Fewsmith has very skilfully supplied a profusion of art work. For children from six to ten, and excellent for reading aloud to those younger.

THE DAYTIME STORY-BOOK

FOR MOTHER AND CHILD

By RUTH O. DYER

Author of "THE SLEEPY-TIME STORY-BOOK" and "THAT'S WHY STORIES"
Illustrated, with frontispiece in colors, and decorated by ANTOINETTE INGLIS
Square 12mo Price, $1.00

A companion to the popular "Sleepy-Time Story-Book," which it supplements, and equally attractive and helpful. As the author so well states, it is "for the times when the mother is closest to her child," that is, when making the little one ready for the day. Vexation and ill-temper are pleasingly avoided by stories that make play and entertainment of buttoning wee shoes and making ready the bright face, the soft hair, and the little hands for a happy day, with a soothing afternoon nap. Artistic beauty helps to make it a gem of a book that will be welcomed wherever there are little people and mothers who love them.

KELLOGG (ELIJAH).

His heroes are not those whom the death of some rich and distant relative, or a sudden turn of fortune's wheel, makes rich and influential. They hew out their own fortunes, struggling honestly with difficulties, and rising by means of them to a higher manhood. It is doing wrong by a boy to let him grow up without reading Elijah Kellogg's books.

"There are no better books for boys than Francis Rolt-Wheeler's 'U. S. Service Series.'"—Chicago Herald.

U. S. Service Series. Profusely illustrated from photographs taken in work for U. S. Government. Large 12mo. Decorated covers ..... each 1.35

The Boy with the U. S. Survey.

Here are told the adventures of the U. S. Geological Survey, not in dry statistical reports and bluebooks, but graphically woven into a stirring narrative that both pleases and instructs.

The Boy with the U. S. Foresters.

The life of a youthful forester is followed in adventurous detail—the mighty representative of our country's Government though young in years—a youthful monarch in a vast domain of forest.

The Boy with the U. S. Census.

A bright American boy learns the growth and resources of our vast country, and how the necessary information is gathered, the securing of which frequently involves hardship and peril.

The Boy with the U. S. Fisheries.

There is no lack of exciting scenes. The far Aleutian Islands have witnessed more desperate sea-fighting than has occurred elsewhere since the days of the Spanish buccaneers, and pirate craft, which the U. S. Fisheries must watch, rifle in hand, are prowling in the Behring Sea today.

The Boy with the U. S. Indians.

A book thrilling in its human side by the heroism demanded in the little-known adventures of those who do the work of "Uncle Sam." This is especially true of those engaged in work with and for the Indians—always a name to conjure with among boys.

The Boy with the U. S. Explorers.

This volume tells how our Government explores strange places and investigates countless odd forms of plant life in the hope of developing that which may benefit the people of this great land.

The Boy with the U. S. Life-Savers.

This volume, with its typical American boy as a centre, shows how our Government protects its citizens with the aid of the Revenue Cutter Service, the Life-Saving Service, and in the depths of the earth, where men from the Bureau of Mines take the lead in rescue work in colliery disasters.

The Boy with the U. S. Mail.

The officials of the Post Office department have, as in the case of all other departments covered in this series, extended their courtesy to Dr. Rolt-Wheeler to enable him, through the happy medium of a good story, to tell us about one of the most interesting forms of "Uncle Sam's" care for us.

The Boy with the U. S. Weather Men.

The Monster-Hunters. Illustrated 1.35

The "Monster-Hunters" is a new achievement in juvenile literature. It is a story of thrilling adventure, and through its pages writhe or thunder those vast and uncanny monsters that inhabited this world long ago. Yet so carefully has this portrayal been done that there is no false scientific note, and no "nature-faking." The "Monster-Hunters" is endorsed by the American Museum of Natural History, of one or two of the expeditions of which it is, in part, the story.

TROWBRIDGE (J. T.).

One great merit of all of Trowbridge's stories is their unfailing dramatic fusion and flow. His characters are all vitally conceived, and hence his page is essentially dramatic, full of action and the throb of real life, as distinguished from novels that are merely narrative and descriptive. The interest of his stories is not at all in what he, the author, has to say, but in what his personages do and say. It is not his wit, but their wit, that makes us laugh.

(Books for Boys and Girls.)

Trowbridge understood boys and girls. He knew that boys and girls can be inspired to good, but cannot be driven. And yet not in any of his books is there preaching. He tells his stories in a clean straight-forward manner and boys and girls read out of them also that which Trowbridge did not write but clearly hid between the lines. No other writer has been shown such unflagging loyalty by American boys and girls. To-day, as for years past, his books are to be found in most homes, most libraries, and most bookstores.

CLASSIFIED INDEX.

This classified list does not aim to be complete, but rather suggestive. It contains no books of juvenile or adult fiction, save where the contents of such books are of such a nature as strictly to include them in one of the several classifications, and, therefore, to be regarded as technical. In searching for books dealing with a particular subject, we advise a careful perusal of this entire catalogue, for the reason that each title is accompanied by more or less description, and, as is frequently the case, a book is found to fit a need for which it would not naturally be classified.

MY ADVENTURES AS A GERMAN SECRET AGENT

By Captain Horst Von der Goltz

With illustrations from photographs and official documents

12*mo.* $1.50 net. Postage 15 cents.

For ten years, Captain von der Goltz was a secret agent of Imperial Germany. In this remarkable book, he tells the story of his career from the time when, by the innocent discovery of a letter from a member of the Hohenzollern family, he was plunged into the whirlpool of secret diplomacy, until the day in 1916 when he was released from a British prison and sent to the United States by the English authorities to testify against Capt. Hans Tauscher, accused of complicity in the plot to blow up the Welland Canal—an enterprise which Captain von der Goltz himself had planned.

Here is the story of ten years of adventure and participation in many of the most important events of our times—told by an eye-witness! Plots, revolutions, fostered or frustrated; secret treaties that were never consummated; rivalries, commercial or political, that have led to war: it was with these that Captain von der Goltz's daily life was concerned. Secret agent during the critical years of 1907 to 1911, soldier in the United States Army; staff officer under Villa—these are but a few of the various capacities in which he has done his work. At the outbreak of the European War, he became Captain von Papen's aide and adviser in the numerous conspiracies against the neutrality of the United States. Sent to Europe under a false passport, he was arrested and imprisoned for fifteen months in England. His betrayal by the German government and the information furnished to Great Britain and the United States form the climax to his story.

The book is romance of a first-rate quality. But more than that, it is the history, authenticated in innumerable details, of Imperial Germany's plot against the peace of the world. In his revelations of German activities in Mexico, South America and the United States, and his statement of the aims of his former government, Captain von der Goltz sounds a note that is practically a call to arms to every American.

LIMEHOUSE NIGHTS

By Thomas Burke

Author of "Nights in London," "London Lamps," etc.

Cloth 8vo. $1.50 net. Postage 10 cents.

This remarkable book of stories of London's Chinese quarter aroused a storm of comment when it appeared in England last year. Its unusual qualities of poetic beauty and powerful realism will, it is certain, evoke an equally enthusiastic response from American readers.

English opinions of "Limehouse Nights"

H. G. Wells says: "Nowhere have I seen anything like adequate praise for the romantic force and beauty of Mr. Thomas Burke's 'Limehouse Nights.' In the Early Nineties when Henley was alive and discovering was in fashion that book would have made a very big reputation indeed."

Clement Shorter says: "A book of first-rate importance—a work of genius. . . . It is rarely that a prose writer fills you with such a sense of the possession of poetry. . . . Each story has a literary perfection that is to me quite amazing in its power."

The Bookman: "A book full of masterpieces. . . . For all else that it contains, of wonder and witchery, color and perfume and light, fidelity to truth and at the same time a certain subdual of detail to the gracious vision of the artist, for all these high qualities of literature I can express only admiration. These stories are nothing less than wonderful. They are wonderful in their unique craftsmanship, wonderful in their sense of loveliness and the glory that are always to be found if sought for, even in those things esteemed most unlovely and inglorious. Wonderful again in this book is the glowing spirit that suffuses it; a spirit of tenderness and pity and loving-kindness, and that rare uplifting charity which is love."

The World: "Mr. Burke has managed to wrap his facts in such beautiful imagery, to paint them with such sympathy and such consummate art, that the book is lifted far from the realm of mere sordidness. . . . Buy it, because you will assuredly be drawn to read anyhow parts of it again."

Liverpool Daily Post: . . . "Mr. Burke has a style and a conception which are masterly. . . . He has the stamp of greatness which leads one to hope that with more restraint he may yet take rank among the masters. . . . It is power that is the one impression that Mr. Burke leaves despite the horror of his stories. Kipling has written nothing more powerful."

Eastern Morning News: "A remarkable book, a most remarkable book—a horrible book and a beautiful book."

Aberdeen Daily Journal: . . . "In his own line Mr. Burke is, to our mind, the most vigorous and the most gifted realist our literature has produced."

THE CREAM OF THE JEST

By James Branch Cabell

Author of "The Rivet in Grandfather's Neck," "The Certain Hour," etc.

12*mo.* $1.35 net. Postage 10 cents.

"The Wardens of Earth sometimes unbar strange windows, I suspect—windows which face on other worlds than ours; and They permit this-or-that man to peer out fleetingly, perhaps, just for the joke's sake; since always They humorously contrive matters so this man shall never be able to convince his fellows of what he has seen, or of the fact that he was granted any peep at all."—Richard Harrowby.

This is the story of a man to whom was unbarred one of these strange windows.

It is the story of Felix Kennaston, novelist, man of the world, and seeker after beauty, and of how, by a queer accident, he chanced upon an answer to the great riddle of life—not the real answer, perhaps, but in the end it contented him.

Mr. Cabell has told a strange story here. You may call it a parable if you like; or a satire upon our devotion to false gods. But you cannot but be stirred by the odd fortunes of the very human man who is its hero: for Felix Kennaston is in a sense a portrait of all men. And Mr. Cabell's portrayal of him is marked by the same deep knowledge of human nature and the same beauty of style that have won for his other books their high place among modern writings.

THE NEW GETHSEMANE

By Edward Lyell Fox

Illustrated by C. G. Bigelow

12*mo.* 60 cents net. Postage 5 cents.

War came to the little village of Oberammergau, hidden in the Bavarian hills. It came in the persons of a heavy-handed Unteroffizier and his recruiting-squad, and laid hold upon Anhalt the Cobbler, the Christus of the Passion Play. The story of that moment of great decision in the life of a man—a Man of God, if ever there was one—is the theme of this little story, tense with feeling and emotion and of intimate appeal to every man and woman at the present time.

THE FISHERMEN

By Dimitry Gregorovitsh

With an Introduction by Dr. Angelo S. Rappoport

12*mo.* $1.50 net. Postage 10 cents.

In this vivid and detailed story of the lives of a family of Russian peasants of half a century ago, we are introduced to the work of a writer who is correctly considered one of the best exponents of the life of the Russian working people. A contemporary of Turgenev, Gregorovitsh possesses the same keen sense of social justice that distinguished the author of "Virgin Soil"; but unlike most of the great Russians of the past century, he concerns himself not with propaganda but with a simple narration of the events in the lives of his characters. To a remarkable degree has he the power of making real and dramatic the most humble and commonplace incidents —and this power is nowhere so evident as in "The Fishermen," which now for the first time appears in English.

It is life, Russian life, with its hardships and poverty, its beauty and poignancy, which you will find in this story of the sturdy old fisherman, Glyeb Savinitsh, and his household. It is a story of unceasing labor, of sacrifice and of love. And dominating the book is the note of struggle in spite of hopelessness that has kept alive the spirit of the Russian people, and in our own day has made possible the Revolution.

MICHAIL GOURAKIN

By Lapo Danalevskaya

Cloth 12*mo.* $1.50 net. Postage 10 cents.

An unusual novel of Petrograd society as it existed on the eve of the war. A brilliant and dramatic story, revealing a side of Russian official and high social life comparatively unknown to the majority of novel readers. The people of the book, obviously drawn from life, move in an atmosphere of refinement and wealth almost Oriental in its luxury. As a study of Russian character, no less than as an entertaining story, "Michail Gourakin" is a notable novel, eminently worth reading.

THE TERROR

By Arthur Machen

Author of "The Bowmen," etc.

12*mo.* $1.25 net. Postage 10 cents.

In 1914 England, just awakened to the magnitude of the war, was thrilled and horrified by a strange series of crimes that had no parallel in the history of the country. All over the land men and women were found mysteriously killed—beaten, suffocated, even bitten to death! Who could have done it? That was the question all England asked. Was it some devilish new form of warfare that the Germans had discovered?

Helpless, the English awaited developments in this new reign of terror. It seemed as if a kind of madness had appeared—an epidemic of blood-lust that spread over the whole country. Hatred was abroad, and no one knew where it would strike next.

That is the situation at the beginning of this remarkable mystery story. It is a tale of crime that no one can trace or forecast, a book of thrills and ever-increasing fascination. Mr. Machen has told one of the most compelling mystery stories of many years, and its climax is certain to astonish all readers.

DICKY, KNIGHT-ERRANT

By Isabel Maude Peacocke

12*mo.* $1.35 net. Illustrated. Postage 10 cents.

Every one, at some time or other, has had his or her heart tangled up in the love for the brave little figure of a boy. All the poignant memories of life seem to be caught up and made alive again in the vision of that golden age of boyhood. Dicky is just such a little fellow as the one you have loved, winding his way into your heart, and bringing with him a happy flood of recollections.

Just as you loved Peter Pan, just as you loved little Lord Fauntleroy, so you will want to know and to love Dicky, Knight-Errant.

The Great War

SIXTEEN MONTHS IN FOUR GERMAN PRISONS

By Henry C. Mahoney

With an Introduction by Frederick A. Talbot

12*mo. Illustrated.* $1.50 net. Postage 10 cents.

In July, 1914, Mr. Mahoney entered Germany en route to Russia on a private mission. Before he could reach his destination war had broken out and he, together with many other English and French citizens, was arrested and held in prison on a charge of espionage. In this book he tells of his secret trial and his imprisonment for sixteen months in the four great prison camps of Wesel, Sennelager, Klingelputz and Ruhleben. His experiences constitute a remarkable record of hardship and mistreatment, and should be of great interest to Americans.

Belles-lettres

SOME MODERN BELGIAN WRITERS

A CRITICAL STUDY

By G. Turquet Milnes

Author of "The Influence of Baudelaire." With a Prefatory Note by Edmund Gosse

Cloth 12*mo.* $1.00 net. Postage 6 cents.

While the genius of individual Belgian writers, such as Maeterlinck and, of later years, Verhaeren, has had wide recognition, few people are aware of the richness and complexity of Belgian literature as a whole. This book is in the nature of a brief, critical introduction to some of the modern poets, essayists and novelists who have given to Belgian letters its peculiar and distinctly national character. In a rapid and illuminating survey, the author discusses the French influence in Belgian literature and, in turn, the close relation of Belgian writers to the social and political condition of their own country. Separate chapters are then devoted to an analysis of the work of Maeterlinck, Verhaeren, Rodenbach, Camille Lemmonier, Georges Eekhoud, the Destrée Brothers, Elskamp and Van Lerberghe and Courouble.

An important book about Spiritualism

A PSYCHIC VIGIL

Edited by Filson Young

With an Introduction by H. R. Haweis, M.A.

12*mo.* $1.50 net. Postage 10 cents.

This book, which was originally published in 1896, is an attempt to explain, by means of a series of conversations between three men, the essential facts of what is commonly called spiritualism. In view of the great increase of interest in psychical research this study of the occult should be widely welcomed as a very useful attempt to show the difference between the known and unknown law, and to place psychical research so far as is possible upon a scientific basis. Sir Oliver Lodge says of it: "I commend this book as containing some wisdom, thoughtfully and well expressed. Only occasionally do I find myself differing from it."

For the Home-Maker or Architect

HOMES THAT ARCHITECTS HAVE BUILT FOR THEMSELVES

Edited by Richardson Wright

Editor of "House and Garden"

8*vo.* Illustrated. $4.00 net. Postage 20 cents.

The homes that architects have built for themselves reflect their professional and artistic individuality and constitute the highest standard of taste and practical arrangement. In these notable examples of American domestic architecture, the location, landscape gardening, planning and furnishing have been selected and designed unrestricted by the usual modifying influences of a client. The pictures and plans in this practical book are rich in suggestion to the home builder who wants to make the most of even a modest expenditure, and to the architect it is a valuable reference volume. Among the homes represented are those designed by Thomas Hastings, Charles Barton Keen, Allen W. Jackson and Howland S. Chandler.

By the Author of "Limehouse Nights"

LONDON LAMPS

A Book of Songs

By Thomas Burke

16*mo.* $1.00 net. Postage 8 cents.

In this group of some fifty poems, Mr. Burke is revealed as the true lover as well as the imaginative interpreter of London's ever-changeful, ever-romantic personality. In the colorful and rhythmical songs "West India Dock Road," "At Limehouse," "Clerkenwell," and in such deft lyrics as "Sunday Tea-Time," "In the Train," "Music Hall Ballet" and "At the Pantomime," Mr. Burke displays the same strength and beauty of phrase that has won for "Limehouse Nights" such wide recognition.

For Younger Readers

SERBIAN FAIRY TALES

Translated by Mme. Elodie Mijatovich

With colored plates and black-and-white illustrations by Sidney Stanley

Large Crown 8vo. $2.00 net. Postage 15 cents.

The tales collected in this volume are selected from the admirable translation of Serbian Folk-Lore made by Madame Elodie Mijatovich nearly twenty years ago. Serbian folk-tales are perhaps not so widely known among American children as they ought to be, yet, in spite of the fact that the elements of many of the stories are to be found also in the folk-lore of other nations, they have a character and a charm that is all their own. They are racy of the soil and of the people, and in their original Serbian form they were taken down from the lips of professional story-tellers and of old peasant women in Serbia and Herzegovina.

In making the selection from Madame Mijatovich's book, the fact that the stories are intended to be read by children has been constantly kept in mind, and for this reason one or two of the tales, which were rather horrible for our tastes, have been omitted. Mr. Sidney Stanley has supplied 16 beautiful illustrations in color and black and white which have admirably caught the spirit of austere, almost stark simplicity which characterizes the stories.

"The 'useful conversations' are for once really useful, covering as they do all the requirements of the traveler, and having in a third column a guide to the pronunciation of the foreign words used. The guides are concise and adequate; routes and rates are given, and suitable hotels are recommended. The coins of the various countries are illustrated, and their values explained. Telegrams and letters are drafted in the languages, and cycling and motoring terms given; in fact, nothing of consequence is omitted, and nothing of inconsequence is included. The guides are, therefore, of convenient size for the pocket, and no traveler who is wise will hereafter travel without them."—The Bookseller and Stationer.

BADEN-POWELL, SIR ROBERT, K. C. B. Memories of India, Recollections of Soldiering, Sport, etc. With 24 Illustrations in Color and one hundred Black and White by the Author. Artistically bound in Cloth, 8vo, Boxed . . . . . Net, 3 50

During the twenty-five years spent in India, Sir Robert Baden-Powell filled many note-books with his impressions, and illustrated them with sketches. For years these books have been a source of interest and pleasure to his friends. He has been constantly urged to publish them, but has hitherto been prevented by pressure of work. He has now, however, made time in which to write his recollections of the twenty-five years spent in India, and his book has the virtue of being practically written and illustrated on the spot. He deals with many phases of Indian life, including bungalow life on the plains, social life on the hills; pig-sticking and shooting, ragging and riding, campaigning on the frontier, etc. His is always an original point of view, as for instance when he gives a drawing of a bird's-eye view of a tiger beat, or the qualities that go to make the elephant a gentleman. He is an artist of remarkable talent, which, coupled with a thorough knowledge of his subjects, gives to his pictures and drawings a life and movement that render them quite in keeping with his racy recollections. These Reminiscences were in print in July, 1914, but their publication was deferred owing to the outbreak of war.

BULFINCH'S AGE OF FABLE, OR BEAUTIES OF MYTHOLOGY. New Revised Edition by Rev. J. Loughran Scott. This new edition, while retaining all the features of previous revisions, has a number of new features which make it superior to those of any other works on Mythology yet published. 524 pages. Nearly 200 illustrations.

Crown octavo, ... net, $1 25

LEADING FEATURES, AND OPINIONS CONCERNING THEM.

PRONUNCIATION OF PROPER NAMES.—All proper names are printed in black type, syllabified and accentuated. The editor in his preface says: "To know one you must know his name, especially in Mythology, where names constitute being."

"After years of experience I appreciate the value of the pronunciation of proper names in the body of the text. The time for the study is limited; it is impossible to require incessant use of dictionary. . . . I believe you have done much to secure correct spelling. . . . The illustrations in your edition are a valuable feature.

"The recognition of the mythology of Babylon, Assyria, and Phœnicia I consider timely."—Mary L. Hanna, Teacher of English, Central High School, Cleveland, Ohio.

BULFINCH'S AGE OF CHIVALRY, or KING ARTHUR AND HIS KNIGHTS. New Revised Edition by Rev. J. Loughran Scott. This New Edition, uniform with "The Age of Fable," has been thoroughly revised and a number of new chapters added. The numerous illustrations have been prepared with great care and considerable expense. As "The Age of Fable" superseded all former editions of that book, so this edition of "The Age of Chivalry" is far superior to any other work on the subject yet published.

Crown octavo, ... net, 1 25

"No one can read this edition of 'The Age of Chivalry' without coming in contact with the best literature of the Arthurian Legends. While retaining the old, at the same time we have created a new work. The interest of these legends naturally centers about King Arthur and Queen Guinevere. In the case of Guinevere we have added a new section, and also enlarged the chapter that treats of Arthur and the passing of his kingdom. The names ranking next in interest are those of Launcelot and Elaine; here, too, we have written an additional section. At the close of the first part we have inserted a chapter on Mediæval Legends. St. George and Robin Hood attach to an importance scarcely surpassed by King Arthur himself. We have also drawn directly from Sir Thomas Mallory, especially in connection with the adventures of Sir Tor, Sir Pellenore, Sir Gawain, Sir Launcelot, and Sir Galahad."

"A Third Part with seven additional chapters has been added, consisting largely of the writings of Ossian. Whatever may have been the origin of those strange books, they certainly embody more of the ancient spirit of Britain than any other similar work."

DAWSON, MARY. The Mary Dawson Game Book. In planning the home entertainments, which have become in this country such a delightful part of the social life of every community, there is nothing in which the hostess stands more frequently in need than good original games. The games of to-day are as diversified as those who assemble at parties, and this book covers every occasion. For the young, run-about games; for the sedate, question games and guessing contests; for boys and girls who will follow a college course in the near future, games with a college flavor; for tiny tots, games so simple that even a three-year-old can grasp them.

In this book practically all the pastimes and contests described are original inventions of the author. A few good old games which seem to have been forgotten in our day and generation, have been revived and included, being too good to be allowed to sink into oblivion. Large 12mo, cloth, 825 pages . . Vest-Pocket Compendium of Applied Electricity. By Paul E. Lowe, M.E., written especially for officials and employees of all grades in Electric Railway, Lighting and Industrial Systems. This work is profusely illustrated, containing over 214 illustrations, and is supplemented with a voluminous vocabulary of electrical terms and phrases.

For students of electricity, its origin and nature, and for everybody interested in any one or all of the branches of activity in the modern industries, arts and sciences, where electricity is applied, this comprehensive and conveniently arranged little work is invaluable. Whilst covering the whole field of electrical science, embodying in each subject all the salient and essential features, the author, recognizing the ever increasing importance of the Electric Railway in the development of modern business and social life, has prepared the portion of this volume treating that subject, with greater elaboration than is usual in restricted works, and with far more than ordinary care and scientific precision.

A leading characteristic of the entire work is its thoroughly practical nature and lucid explanation of all principles by means of diagrams of circuits, etc.

Faulty Diction—or, Errors in the Use of the English Language, and How to Correct Them. (Vest-Pocket Size.) Thomas H. Russell, LL. B., editor-in-chief of Webster's Imperial Dictionary, did the public a great service when he wrote this book in which there are 1017 headings treated, and under some of them—plurals for instance—over fifty every-day errors are illustrated and corrected.

Who does not make errors in speech? Probably there is no person who does not do so occasionally. To use the English language with correctness would be a phenomenon. But there are numerous faulty expressions so widely employed as to have secured something of the status of perfect diction. Many people who ought to know better believe them to be proper, and will defend them with promptitude and even passion. There is a large number of common blunders so grotesquely stupid that they raise one's gorge. They are so common that many people think the improper form the correct one.

Ogilvie's Concise World's Atlas and Gazetteer. Based Upon the Latest Census Reports and Official Estimates.

By L. Brent Vaughan, Ph.B. The plan on which this Gazetteer is arranged is somewhat different from that usually followed. A word of explanation, however, will suffice to point out the superior method used. In the main the arrangement is alphabetic. Under the leading Political Divisions are grouped the principal facts pertaining to those divisions. For example, under France are included all the departments and the principal cities of the French Republic, with their populations according to the latest census. Likewise all mountain ranges in the world are grouped under Mountain Ranges, the rivers under Rivers, lakes under Lakes, oceans under Oceans, capes under Capes, straits, channels and sounds under Straits. This is the only gazetteer published so arranged.

The Jefferson Bible. By Thomas Jefferson. The third president of the United States, by clipping from the Gospels of Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, compiled a connected narrative, which he entitled, The Life and Morals of Jesus of Nazareth. The compilation begins with the first verse of the second chapter of Luke and ends with the last portion of the sixtieth verse of the twenty-seventh chapter of Matthew. In the compilation he made use of 120 different clippings, changing from one of the Gospels to another, and frequently back again to the same chapter for another verse; in some instances taking a considerable portion of a chapter exactly as it appears in the Bible, in others rearranging the verses as best suited his purpose, and in still others using a few verses or only a small part of a given verse to round out some portion of the narrative.

THE COLLECTORS' SERIES

No path is so full of pitfalls as that of the amateur collector. In spite of text-books and elaborately illustrated volumes, he finds that the information he has absorbed is rarely that which is called for in practical experience. He returns to his guides and eventually concludes that the writer knows too much to descend to his level of inexperience. The Collectors' Handbooks are written not from the point of view of the experienced, but from that of one who knows nothing and wants to learn a great deal. Only those who have bought their experience with the currency of error can thoroughly appreciate the many difficulties with which the beginner has to contend. It is this sympathetic attitude towards the reader that makes many of these volumes unique. The editors are acquainted with all the various works on the subjects with which they deal; and, feeling that these volumes were above the heads of beginners, they set themselves to ask the question, "What information is a man most likely to require in the early stages of his hobby?" Instead of arguing from general principles to particular instances, these books reverse the process: pieces explain principles rather than principles being illustrated by pieces.

THE CHINA COLLECTOR. A Guide to the Porcelain of the English Factories. Not only has a careful investigation been made of the actual wares, but also the standard authors on the subject, past and present. Wherever the experience might add to the lucidity of the text, their works have been consulted.

LITERAL TRANSLATIONS OF THE CLASSICS. These translations have been prepared with great care. They follow the original text literally, thus forming a valuable help to the student in his efforts to master the difficulties which beset him. These give an insight into their lives and the circumstances attending the appearance of their works, and will awaken fresh interest in both the text and the authors.

The books are in a convenient form, being exceptionally handy for the pocket. They are printed from clear type, and are attractively and durably bound. Cloth binding, each, ... $0 50

LOTI, PIERRE. Jerusalem. Translated by W. P. Baines. This is probably the best of Loti's travel books. There are many books on the Holy Land, but not one that has in it anything such as Loti has put into this, nor one that makes Christ seem more real, and yet all the time the author professes to be an unbeliever. It has an extraordinary charm and fascination, and believers and unbelievers alike will appreciate it. It is a book which will be appreciated by the clergy in spite of the author's avowed unbelief. The Robertsonian Method of learning the German, French, Spanish, Latin, and Italian languages, without the aid of a teacher, has for the last twenty years been successfully tested throughout the whole European continent; and is, without a single exception, used in teaching these languages in all the educational institutions of England, France, and Germany. In London, Mr. A. H. Monteith, the most celebrated teacher of languages in the world, has arranged and perfected this system; and his works on the Study of French, German, Spanish, Latin, and Italian Languages Without a Master, immediately obtained a sudden and extraordinary popularity.

A prominent U. S. Congressman recently consulted a leading specialist—professor in the Medical College of Johns Hopkins University—and after being charged $50.00 for a diagnosis, was told to "Buy a copy of Lieut. Müller's Book 'MY SYSTEM,' follow his directions and take no medicine." The congressman afterwards stated that the prescription was worth many times the cost. This story is vouched for by the Hon. A. W. Lafferty.

MY SYSTEM: Fifteen Minutes a Day for Health's Sake.

By Lieut. J. P. Müller. With 44 illustrations and a Time Chart. This book embodies what is stated to be the most adaptable and most scientific system of Home Exercise known. It is graded so as to make it of service to young people, elderly people, and to people not physically fit. It can be performed in whichever degree is chosen in 15 minutes, and this time includes the taking of a bath. No apparatus of any kind is required. "My System" is divided into two parts—eight exercises before the bath and ten rubbing exercises after. The system is primarily intended for people who desire to obtain and retain good health. The whole of the movements are designed to strengthen the internal organs of the body. 8vo, cloth, ... Net, $1 00

"MY SYSTEM"—Continued.

MY SYSTEM FOR LADIES. Lieut. Müller has adapted his System of Exercise to the special requirements of ladies—both young and old. The exercises are of extreme value in enabling young women to preserve and older women to regain suppleness, shapeliness, energy and health.

Seek health aright and you will attain beauty. No woman is unbeautiful if really healthy, and therefore every woman can enhance her beauty by improving her health—at a cost of only a few minutes' daily practice of "My System."

MY SYSTEM FOR CHILDREN is an adaptation of Lieut. Müller's famous System to the needs of children. It is similar to his other books in the sense that it is entirely free from crankiness, or impossible and extreme measures. It is a book which will be appreciated by every parent who wishes his or her children to grow up to strength and vitality, and to possess adequate powers of resistance to illness and fatigue, and like Lieut. Müller's System for men and women it is carefully and scientifically graded so as not to overtax or strain the muscles of the child. Also, as in the case of his other books, the author has based his System not on theory only, but on the results of actual experience.

MY BREATHING SYSTEM. Everybody knows that without air we should be unable to exist more than a few minutes, but that it is possible to exist for at least a week without water, while people have fasted from food for from 40 to 70 days and even longer. Air is nutriment, therefore, of even more importance than liquid and solid foods.

Followers of "My System" will know what importance Lieut. Müller has always attached to correct breathing. It is to the practically universal neglect of the Art of Breathing that the author attributes the prevalence of many diseases, especially those which attack the Lungs, Thorax, Heart and the Blood.

"Teach children to breathe properly," says Lieut. Müller, "and the spread of the Great White Scourge would be appreciably diminished." The best curative measure for Anemia, Chlorosis, Gout, Diabetes and other diseases of Metabolism is, he maintains, the regular practice of deep breathing exercises.

"At the solicitation of many pupils who have attended my school of cookery, and of friends who have read my articles in the various magazines and newspapers, as well as to satisfy an increasing demand for a practical book on the making of candies and bonbons, I have been induced to write the following pages.

"Experience has proved the reliability of all the recipes and in every case I have striven to put the matter in as plain a form as possible."—Preface.

——— How to Cook in Casserole Dishes.

A few years ago food cooked en casserole was served in only a few of the best hotels. To-day casserole dishes of many styles, shapes, and sizes are displayed at all the department and housefurnishing stores and are considered a necessary part of the kitchen outfit.

In addition to recipes the author gives instructions for the care of casserole dishes, and the advantages of cooking in this way. Illustrated with 16 half-tone engravings, 258 pages, artistically bound. 12mo, cloth, . . net, 1 00

PRICE, JULIUS M. My Bohemian Days in Paris. With thirty-two illustrations specially drawn for this work by the author. Octavo, cloth, ... Net, 2 50

Julius M. Price is the well-known war artist and correspondent to the "Illustrated London News," which paper he has represented in various parts of the world. In this book he gives us a vivid and entirely novel insight of the Bohemian life of Paris in the Eighties, when he was a student at the École des Beaux Arts. Where other writers have feared to tread he has not hesitated, with the result that the atmosphere of the Quartier Latin and Montmartre of those days is over it all, and the ensemble forms a delightful narrative.

——— My Bohemian Days in London. Illustrated with thirty-two illustrations by the artist-author and a photogravure frontispiece. 243 pages. Octavo, cloth. Net, 2 50

In this book Mr. Price gives us a description of his life in the artists' quarter in London, where he was forced to earn his living before he completed his studies in Paris. The story of his first commission, his struggle for recognition by The Royal Academy and finally his connection with the Illustrated London News will be of value to art students. His life in the art quarter, escapades with models and the descriptions of many romantic adventures will doubtless enthral many readers.

STODDART, A. M. The Life of Paracelsus. The revived interest in Magnetic and Faith Healing, and the much more sympathetic attitude lately adopted by the leaders of modern science towards an intellectual interpretation of life, till recently dismissed as savoring of superstition and charlatanry, gives an added interest to the life story of one of the greatest Mediæval pioneers of Occult Science in its bearing on the problems of Psycho-Therapeutics. While Paracelsus was in fact the real founder of Homœopathy, he was also the first physician to apply in practice the principles of Magnetism and Magnetic Healing. He laid the foundations of a new system built on evidence rather than on the out-worn traditions of the Medicine of his day. This system comprised within itself not only a practical guide to the medical art but also a spiritual philosophy of life.

URLIN, ETHEL. A Short History of Marriage. A popular account of a popular institution, this chatty and informing volume is of the kind that becomes a household favorite.

It contains a sketch of the evolution of Marriage and Marriage Customs, from the earliest days when "might was right," to the later developments of Marriage by Barter and Marriage by Consent. The variations of principle and practice concerning marriage among primitive and modern races in the East and West furnish material of absorbing interest to the student of Sociology, and the innumerable superstitions and observances associated with the Institution supply much novel and curious matter for the entertainment of the casual reader.

"It aims to give the growing as well as the grown Whitman. The accepted readings are given in the text. Each poem has been carefully compared with that appearing in all previous editions, and the changes have been inserted in foot-notes. The lines have been numbered, by which means the reader can readily compare the various readings and mark their transformations. Under the head of 'Gathered Leaves' I have collected such poems as have been dropped by the way, some of which appeared in only one, and others in several editions. I was frequently called upon to give information concerning poems whose headings had been changed. These have been noted, and in the alphabetical list at the end of the volume all such titles appear, with reference to the present title."—Preface.

HOFFMANN, PROF. Modern Magic. A Practical Treatise on the Art of Conjuring. By Professor Hoffmann. With 318 Illustrations; 563 pages. With an Appendix containing explanations of many of the best known specialties of Maskelyne and Cooke. A handsome and substantial book, containing 300 tricks. Large 12mo, bound in cloth, . 1 50

Is a treatise, and a very practical one, on the art of conjuring, in its various and bewildering departments, some of which require special apparatus, most of which require that dexterity known as sleight-of-hand. There are, for example, card tricks which can be played with ordinary cards and without sleight-of-hand, and others again which demand special apparatus. There are coin tricks, tricks with watches, rings, handkerchiefs, dominoes, dice, etc.

The tricks are clearly and comprehensively explained by diagrams and illustrations when necessary. This book will afford an inexhaustible fund of amusement in a family where the young people are fond of games and are quick in acquiring these things. The explanations are given most comprehensively, and cover an immense field; besides, the book is filled with illustrations demonstrating the easiest way to accomplish these feats of legerdemain, magic, etc.

There is a vast difference between telling how a trick is done and teaching how to do it. This is the only book that teaches how to do it.

GILBERT PATTEN.

Mr. Patten has had the distinction of having his books adopted by the U. S. Government for all naval libraries on board our warships. While aiming to avoid the extravagant and sensational, the stories contain enough thrilling incidents to please the lad who loves action and adventure. In the Rockspur stories the description of their Baseball and Football Games and other contests with rival clubs and teams make very exciting and absorbing reading; and few boys with warm blood in their veins, having once begun the perusal of one of these books, will willingly lay it down till it is finished.

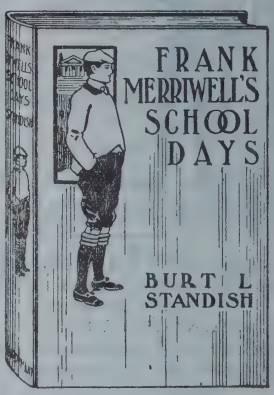
The Famous Frank Merriwell Stories. BURT L. STANDISH.



No modern series of tales for boys and youths has met with anything like the cordial reception and popularity accorded to the Frank Merriwell Stories. There must be a reason for this and there is. He has no bad habits, and his manliness inculcates the idea that it is not necessary for a boy to indulge in petty vices to be a hero. AMERICAN BOY'S WORKSHOP, THE. By Clarence B. Kelland. For every boy who succeeded in making something he wanted there are a hundred who failed—and they failed because they didn't know just how to go at it. If they had a hint or a few suggestions as to plan, or a drawing to follow, they would have built their fishpoles or boats or desks. And that is one of the reasons for publishing this book—to give the boy the help he must have to make what he needs.

Fully illustrated. Large 12mo, cloth, .net, $1 25

In the preparation of this book the editor has secured the best men to write the various departments. For instance, "Things for Boys to Make" has been prepared by John L. Dougheny, who edits the "For Boys to Make" column of The American Boy Magazine. The chapter on "Signalling" was written by Lieutenant W. S. Anderson of the United States Navy. The chapter on "Small Furbearers and How to Catch Them" was written by George J. Thiesen, a noted trapper and woodsman. The chapter on the Bow and Arrow is by A. Hyatt Verrill, and so on, making a complete handybook for boys, not by one man, but many men of wide experience, each writing about the subject he knows best.

"The American boy is always interested in a good book treating on electrical experiments of a practical and interesting nature. There have been a great many books written in the past few years, intended for the electrically inclined youths of the land, but we do not remember seeing a more worthy volume in a long time than here presented by Mr. Seaver. The volume is profusely illustrated with clear-cut drawings, which can be readily understood by young boys of from ten to fourteen years, and all of the important fundamental magnetic and electrical laws with their accompanying actions and reactions have been cleverly and interestingly woven thru the experiments outlined.

"A number of excellent half-tone illustrations are inserted showing modern electrical appliances, so that as the boy studies the different experiments and simply explained laws, he will also be given a clear understanding of the relation between such experimental apparatus and the commercial instruments and appliances. Mr. Seaver is to be congratulated upon the adaptness with which he has combined these two important fields of electrical endeavor, so that the young reader will not become confused or discouraged by his inability to understand the underlying theory of the apparatus described."—The Electrical Experimenter.

LOYD, SAM. A Puzzle Book for Children. A book that will be heartily welcomed by the thousands of children who have been solving the Loyd Puzzles in the leading magazines and newspapers.

120 pages of puzzles beautifully printed in two colors, bound in artistic covers. Wrappers printed in four colors. 4to, ... net, $1 00

The child loves puzzles in the same spirit that youthful pride is felt in physical superiority, puzzles offering a chance to display alertness of mind.

Nobody questions that young folks derive from puzzle-solving valuable training in concentration and correct methods of reasoning. Then, too, truths and principles are taught through puzzles in a never-to-be-forgotten way, for it is a labor of love. As the ancient philosopher says:—"What is learned with pleasure is never forgotten, but knowledge cannot be beaten into the head with a wormwood club."

Parents cannot too early encourage their children's love for puzzles. Mastering a problem through the force of his own reasoning power will imbue a child with pride and self-reliance that will act like a tonic on his intellectual growth.

This book of puzzles is particularly designed for young folk; there being nothing in the collection that might be considered to be beyond their ability to understand and master.

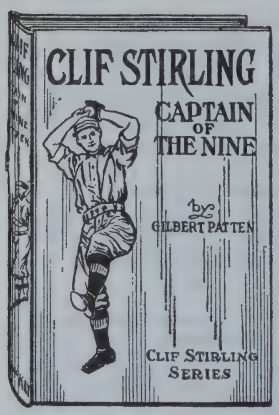
PATTEN, GILBERT. Clif Stirling Series. Each volume illustrated with colored frontispiece and eight half-tone engravings, handsomely bound in cloth and stamped in gold and colors.

Per volume, 60 cents Net.



That Mr. Patten, the author of the "Rockspur Series," has written another series of books for boys is good news indeed. Clif Stirling is a bright, wholesome, clean American boy, and the following of his career in school and college sports means a notable addition to books of the best character for juvenile readers.

——— Clif Stirling, Captain of the Nine. An exciting story of the events at Fairfield Academy during the baseball season. The description of the games for the championship with Belmont High School at the end of the season will appeal to any boy who is interested in school sports.

"Everyone who enjoys a lively, well-played game of baseball will find plenty in this book to thrill him. As a boy reader expresses it, you can fairly see the plays made and watch what each player is about."—Young People's Weekly, Elgin, Ill.

"I have read your book 'Clif Stirling, Captain of the Nine,' and enjoyed it very much. The story is a good one and should appeal to all young men who are in any way interested in athletic sports."—HARRY H. DAVIS, Captain Philadelphia Athletics, 1911 World's Champions.

——— Clif Stirling Behind the Line. A capital story of the football season at Fairfield. Introducing "The New Boy" Arthur Gregory who was regarded as a quitter, but saves the championship by his good play in the final game.

"It is a stirring story of boy life on the athletic field, just the kind of a story the real boy likes, and just the kind for him, clean, wholesome and entirely within his range."—Pittsburg Dispatch, June 11, 1911.

"The manly way in which the youth acts under all sorts of conditions commends him to everyone. So 'Clif Stirling Behind the Line' will be much appreciated."—The Boston Globe, May 20, 1911.

——— Clif Stirling, Stroke of the Crew. The third volume of the series is like the first two books, a tale of school boy sports, struggles, temptations, defeats, and victories in which big-hearted manly Clif plays the most prominent part.

——— Clif Stirling, Freshman at Stormbridge. The fourth volume of the Clif Stirling Series relates the experience and adventure of Clif Stirling during his first year at college.

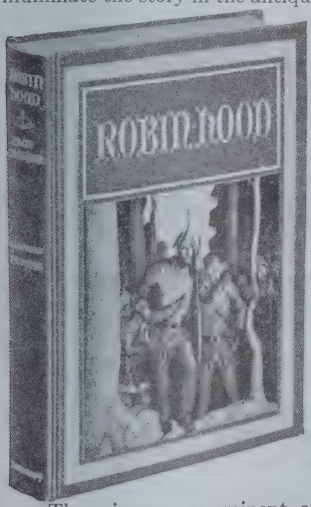
ROBIN HOOD. By Paul Creswick. Illustrated by N. C. Wyeth. Eight full-page illustrations, inlay and title in four colors. Illustrated end-papers. Beautifully bound in cloth covers, stamped in gold, 8vo. . . . . net, 2 50

Reflections Concerning the Illustrating of "Robin Hood."

Given "Robin Hood" to illustrate, the temptation is strong to the artist to illuminate the story in the antique manner of Albrecht Durer, for instance, as most fitting and appropriate to the character and medieval period of the Ballads. This point of view is admirable and has proven itself so in several well-known editions of the book. However, I have always felt in these pictures a certain thinness of dramatic presentation and a lack of rugged appeal which in no way parallels or corresponds with the virile spirit of the ancient legend.



This wonderful story fairly reeks with the spirit of the out of doors, sunlight and wind, dark forests and shining meadows. The men that roam this countryside are flesh and blood, faces sun-tanned and roughened, their clothes coarse made and stained and fragrant of wood-smoke and scorched venison! One feels them to be capable of all the deeds, good and bad, attributed to them. We become identified with real people. We sense a contemporary quality in them.

So must the picture maker work in a strictly contemporaneous way. He should build his characters as real characters, his trees as real trees and in a manner contemporary to his time, emotionally and technically.

There is one pre-eminent contribution that the artist can offer in so-called historical painting for the revisualizing of a vanished past, and that is achieved by referring to the Nature he knows for as much of his material as possible. Sunlight is to-day what it always was; the tanned features of a Pennsylvania ploughman is a counterpart of men of the Greenwood. What countryman of to-day would not fit perfectly into the leather tabard and green hood of the countryman of the eleventh century? The toques which my Swiss grandmother knitted for us boys at home are transformed in an instant, in my mind's eye, into a perfect head-piece for the broad face of Will Stutely, or for old Warrenton, perhaps!

It is with these thoughts in mind that I will launch into the business of illustrating "Robin Hood." My aim will be to create, as far as I am able, a background for the reader of convincing compositions of the old English countryside and its human interests, the motifs appropriately selected and universal in dramatic appeal.—*N. STAPP, EMILIE B. The Go-Hawk Series. Only a few of us really know and understand children. Still fewer have the exquisite human talent of interpreting the childish heart. "Go-Hawks" goes into that small choice class that is about children and is for grown-ups too. Who will derive the more pleasure from these stories—the parents who read them aloud or the children who listen—will be hard to determine.

Each volume illustrated with ten full-page plates and numerous illustrations, handsomely bound in cloth and stamped in gold and colors.

VAN LOON, HENDRIK WILLEM, A.B., Ph.D. A Short History of Discovery from the Earliest Times to the Founding of the Colonies. Written and drawn and done in color. This book does not intend to give children all the facts about all the events of the earliest discoveries of Greenland, Iceland, and America. It merely says, "dear children, history is the most fascinating and entertaining and instructive of arts." It tells us of men of great courage and people who knew how to die for their convictions. It shows us how very difficult it is to achieve anything in this world and how we have to work for everything we want to accomplish. WARREN, CARRO FRANCES. The Garden Series. The child who reads the Garden Series will look with new eyes upon the great beautiful outdoors. No other books inspire such love for the simple beauties of nature, nor give instruction in such a charming way. Flowers of garden and wayside become in these delightful pages individuals with all the characteristics of well-known acquaintances. Without realizing where he has acquired the knowledge, the child will gain a tender familiarity with these blossoms of summer, recalling them as tried and faithful friends.

The sweetness and joy of country and garden and woodland breathes through every sentence. To the country boy and girl they are a real delight, to the dweller in the city they are a revelation.

There is a double page in colors showing all the flowers mentioned in the story and to identify each will afford a valuable nature study for little readers.

Each volume illustrated with four full-page colored plates and numerous other full-page and text illustrations. Bound in artistic cloth covers.

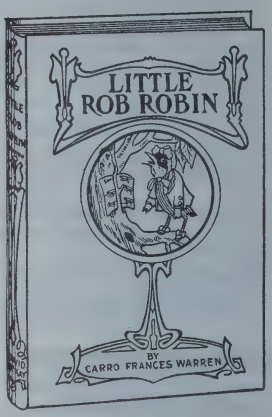
WARREN, CARRO FRANCES. Birdland Fairy Series.

LITTLE ROB ROBIN.



Every feathered songster that fills the woods with his music and cheerful twitter will be found in "The Birdland Fairy Series," which Miss Warren is bringing out to delight afresh her vast army of childish admirers.

In "Little Rob Robin" every chapter is a glimpse into a world of new delights. Such marvelous characters!—Rob and his sisters, Twitter and Fluffy, Dr. Wren and his amazing prescriptions for sick birds, talkative Miss Pecketty Pewee, funny Mrs. Wagtail, and a host of others equally amusing.

And Birdland is a place where such surprising things happen—the Woodpeckers' Surprise Party, for instance, the mishaps that befell disobedient little Rob, and many other astonishing and amusing things.

LITTLE CHICK CHICKADEE.

What little reader can fail to find intense delight in "Little Chick Chickadee?" The visit to the Rabbit family—the clever ruse by which the birds gained admittance—the advent of such wholly charming characters as the Snowflake Sisters, the Nuthatch family, and the villain of the play, Mr. Cunning Crow—these are links in a chain of happenings that hold the reader spellbound by their very originality and freshness.

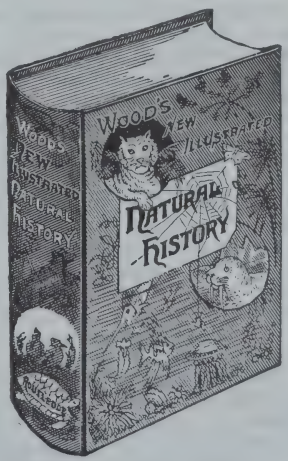
WOOD, REV. J. G., M.A. Popular Natural History. With 600 Illustrations by Wolf, Harrison Weir, and others. Handsomely bound, stamped in Gold and Colors. Crown 8vo, cloth, ... 1 50

No science exerts a greater influence in broadening and elevating the mind than that which treats of the nature, structure, and habits of the lower animals. This volume is made more interesting than most works on natural history for young readers because of its simple, graphic language, its accurate classification, and the number of anecdotes, nearly all of them new, which illustrate the ferocity or docility, the instinct and traits, of the humbler inhabitants of the earth. It is a condensation of his larger work, and has been prepared especially for the instruction and entertaining of the young.

WOOD, REV. J. G., M.A. New Illustrated Natural History. With many Hundred Illustrations from Designs by Wolf, Zwecker, Weir, Coleman, Harvey, and other Artists, engraved by the Brothers Dalziel. Stamped in Gold and Colors. Large 8vo, cloth, 2 50



Wood's "Natural History," with its charming descriptions and delightful anecdotes of all animals, both domestic and wild, is the greatest authority in the land. It gives, minutely and in the simplest language, the habits, haunts, diseases, and peculiarities of the entire animal kingdom. The descriptions of the animals are truthful and interesting. Their portraits, as shown in the hundreds of illustrations, are accurately drawn, and make us realize the variety and beauty of earth's creatures. The life and habits of animals, reptiles, birds, etc., are of equal interest to old and young.
